

The Grant Advisor

the subscription service for grantpersons and faculty in higher education

Since 1983, The Grant Advisor newsletter has been a cost-effective information source on grant and fellowship opportunities for U.S. institutions of higher education and their faculty. Join the multitude of colleges and universities benefiting from our comprehensive and well-presented articles and listings. Whether you choose the paper version ($375/year) or the web version ($685/year), The Grant Advisor will bring you the funding information you need for faculty research projects, fellowships, institutional support, and more.

PAPER VERSION

$375/yr

The paper version of the newsletter covers grant opportunities from federal agencies (except NIH) as well as many independent organizations and foundations.

Published monthly (except July), each issue contains 20-25 program reviews with descriptions, eligibility requirements, special criteria, funding amounts, and contact information (including phone and fax numbers, e-mail and web addresses).

The remainder of the newsletter is comprised of the Deadline Memo with more than 300 listings of grant and fellowship programs for the coming four months, organized into eight academic divisions (fine arts, humanities, sciences, social sciences, education, international, health related, unrestricted/other).

WEB VERSION

$685/yr

The web version is called The Grant Advisor Plus and it offers many extra features such as PDF version of the newsletter, on-line searches, hyperlinks, pop-up windows with program abstracts, and much more.

Best of all, your entire faculty and staff will have unlimited access for searching our databases, downloading files, and browsing current funding opportunities. On-line issues of the newsletter and associated databases and listings are posted and updated monthly (except July). Each subscribing institution has 24-hour-a-day access to the following:

1 THE GRANT ADVISOR NEWSLETTER — This is identical to the paper version, but presented on-line in PDF (Adobe Acrobat®) format. We also provide the entire newsletter in TXT (ASCII text) format for ease in copying and pasting into e-mails and in-house newsletters.

2 DEADLINE MEMO HYPERLINKS — These powerful listings are presented in an elegant table format and include links directly to the following (all where applicable): (a) web site of the funding agency or organization; (b) abstracts and program reviews from The Grant Advisor newsletter; (c) complete text from all current Federal Register grant listings; (d) National Science Foundation on-line documents; and (e) e-mail addresses.

3 DATABASE & ARTICLE SEARCHES — The Database Search allows you to enter your own search criteria (such as funding agency, keywords, academic division, and more). Results are displayed in the same powerful table format as the Deadline Memo Hyperlinks. The Article Search allows keyword searching through hundreds of abstracts and Federal Register articles.

4 200+ USEFUL LINKS TO FUNDING SOURCES — All web-version subscribers have full access to our extensive list of links to funding sources, separated into two categories: Federal and Related Sources, and Foundation and Independent Sources.

5 THE GRANT WORKS — The electronic book of the entire series of articles by Robert J. Toft, Ph.D. presented on-line in Acrobat® PDF format. Included are hundreds of essays providing useful advice and tips for the grantperson in higher education. Chapter titles include Proposal Development, Running the Grants Office, Budget Considerations, Tips on Writing, Grants Office Policy.
